Executive*

Tallahassee, Fla.

Yvonne T. Brown began her professional career with the Internal Revenue Service, where she became its first female tax collector and retired as a group manager. Shortly after, Brown started her private tax consulting firm, representing individuals and corporations that owed the IRS money. After selling her tax practice, she became CFO for a commercial real estate firm in South Florida and retired in 2011.

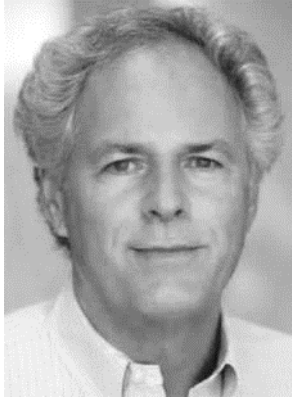

While living in South Florida, Brown served two terms on the Seminole Boosters Board of Directors and began her first 10-year term on the FSU Foundation Board of Trustees.

Although Brown attended the University of Florida, she quickly became an ardent FSU supporter when she married a Seminole in 1968. Together, they started as members of the then newly-created Presidents Club and are now part of the James D. Westcott Legacy Society, Vires, Artes, Mores and have maintained Seminole Boosters Golden Chief status since 1977.

When Brown's husband retired in 2012, they moved to Tallahassee. Since then, Brown has become a member of FSU's National Campaign Committee, Planned Giving Council, Undergraduate Studies Development Council, Seminole Boosters Board of Directors and the Libraries Advancement Board. In the Tallahassee community, she has served on the TMH Foundation Board of Trustees, CHOOSE Tallahassee Board of Directors and the Capital Medical Society Foundation Board of Directors. She is a volunteer at Tallahassee Memorial HealthCare and a graduate of Tallahassee Lifelong Learning Leaders Class 8.

Brown is a lifetime member of the FSU Alumni Association, was inducted into the FSU Circle of Gold in 2016 and was awarded the first FSU Honorary Alumni Award by President Thrasher in 2017.

She is married to Judge Stephen Brown, an adjunct professor at the FSU College of Law.

Directors

Sarasota, Fla.*

H. Michael Bush is the president/owner of Home Resource Inc., a luxury contemporary and modern furniture showroom located in Sarasota, Florida and headquartered on Central Avenue. He and his wife, Kathy, are professionals in the design and home furnishings industry. Situated within the city's historic Rosemary District, the area represents Sarasota's Design District with its collection of architects, interior designers, home builders, cabinet makers and showrooms devoted to flooring, home entertainment, furniture and decorative accessories. Since its founding in 1995, Home Resource has grown to become the place in the southwest of Florida's West Coast where people can shop for high-end, luxury, contemporary and licensed modern furniture. Over the last several years, the Home Resource showroom has also been converted into a fringe theatre where live performances are conducted. Home Resource has been Bush's most recent business turnaround, where he has taken an essentially bankrupt company and successfully led it back to profitability and success.

Bush has held senior executive positions in Europe and the United States for Exxon Mobil, Domino's Pizza, Red Hot Concepts (Chili's) and other smaller publicly traded companies. His specialty is startup and turnaround environments. In addition, he was a key executive in the creation of Mobil Chemical's Global Petrochemical Operations. Bush is a licensed CPA. He has served on many boards, including the Sarasota Ballet, Sarasota Contemporary Dance, West Coast Black Theatre Troupe, Theatre Odyssey, SaraSolo, Sarasota Season of Sculpture, Sarasota Film Festival and the Sarasota Architectural Foundation. In addition, Bush is serving a 14-year term as the president of the Rosemary District.

Liz Cohen

Apollo Beach, Fla.*

Liz Cohen received her B.S. in education from Florida State University. Cohen is the recipient of two prestigious awards from the university—the 2018 Distinguished Alumni Award from the College of Education and the 2021 Grads Made Good Award from the Alumni Association—for her large footprints in education and as a philanthropist. Additionally, she received her M.S. from Chapman University and studied school ethics and leadership at Oxford University in Oxford, England. As a retired educator, she has left a legacy of leadership and learning in school districts throughout the country as a school principal and a national educational consultant specializing in turning around failing schools. Her clients have included the Bill and Melinda Gates Foundation and school districts in California, Texas, Maryland, Virginia and the District of Columbia.

Additionally, she has maintained strong ties with her alma mater as an FSU College of Education Development Council member, FSU Foundation James D. Westcott Legacy Society member, FSU Foundation President’s Club honoree, FSU Alumni Association life member and former regional director for the FSU National Black Alumni Association. She is determined to help as many students as possible to cross the finish line of college completion. As a result, along with her husband, she has established and fully endowed four scholarships, two at FSU and two at Howard University. The FSU scholarship dearest to her, the Ellis and Dorothy York Endowed Scholarship, is a tribute to her parents, who were first-generation college graduates. In addition to her philanthropy, she has participated in medical missions worldwide, including Brazil, Guyana, South Africa, West Africa, Haiti and Cuba. After decades of witnessing women of color with persistent health disparities, she founded OG RUN. This virtual running/walking group provides daily fitness activities, support and encouragement for 300+ women in the U.S., Europe, the Middle East and Africa. The Florida Commission on the Status of Women recognized her for her work, and she received their 2022 Community Spirit Award. Cohen is actively engaged in her community and provides fundraising leadership to the local chapters of her organizations: Alpha Kappa Alpha Sorority, Incorporated and The Links, Incorporated. She resides in Apollo Beach, Fla., with her husband, George Cohen, M.D. and is the proud mother of four children and five grandchildren.

Trusteeship and Engagement
Ft. Lauderdale, Fla.*

Henri W. Crockett is the co-founder and president of the Crockett Foundation, a South Florida-based non-profit that serves youth through educational programs to build character, develop leaders and improve the community, one child at a time.

A native of Pompano Beach, Florida, Crockett earned an athletic scholarship to Florida State University, where he joined his older brother Zack as a football team member (1993 National Champions and 1993–1997 Atlantic Coast Conference Championship team). In 1997, Crockett was selected in the 4th round of the NFL draft. He played for eight years, five seasons with the Atlanta Falcons and three seasons with the Minnesota Vikings. He was a starting player with the Atlanta Falcons in Super Bowl XXXIII in 1999.

Shortly after being drafted by the Atlanta Falcons, Crockett founded Team 94, a non-profit that assisted at-risk youth with after-school tutoring and mentoring in the metropolitan Atlanta area. Through his effort with Team 94, Crockett was able to help several young adults achieve their dream of attending college. Crockett was so inspired by the progress and achievements of the youth enrolled in Team 94 that he sought to expand his philanthropic reach.

After being traded to the Vikings and relocating to Minnesota, Crockett co-founded the Crockett Foundation with his brother Zack. The brothers returned to their hometown of Pompano Beach, Florida, during the 2002 off-season and began hosting the annual Crockett Foundation Weekend, which included a black-tie gala, golf tournament and football camp for youth to raise money for tutoring and mentoring programs. In 2009, Crockett also created the annual Crockett Foundation Community Health Festival, bringing the Broward County community together as families prepare for the back-to-school season to educate families on the importance of maintaining good health and promoting positive lifestyle choices.

Crockett is a member of the Non-profit Executive Alliance of Broward and the Greater Fort Lauderdale Alliance and serves as president-elect of the Orange Bowl Committee. He is also a Leadership Florida Class XXXV graduate.

In 2015, Crockett was honored by the Greater Pompano Beach Chamber of Commerce with the “Annual Shining Star” Award.

He was also inducted into the Broward County Sports Hall of Fame. He obtained his B.S. in criminology from Florida State University and is an active member of the Omega Psi Phi Fraternity.

His proudest accomplishment is being the father and No. 1 fan of two amazing children, whom he spends time with at sports games, music and dance recitals.

Christopher Iansiti is a visionary leader and expert in corporate learning, human performance and talent management. Iansiti has founded or co-founded three companies and consulted with global brands and Fortune 100 companies, including AT&T, Boeing, The Coca-Cola Company, Kaiser Permanente, Chick-fil-A, Virgin Voyages and Cox Enterprises.

In 2003, he founded IANSITI Performance Group Inc., which was acquired in 2018 by TiER1 Performance in Cincinnati, Ohio. IANSITI's impressive client list, industry recognition and client approach were paramount to the acquisition.

Specifically, Iansiti and his team led organizational change transformations, focusing on the human side of business—culture, leadership, learning, coaching and employee performance. In addition, the team was known for its comprehensive solutions to employee onboarding, sales leadership development, management training and more. Client project outcomes included dramatic improvements in customer experience, sales performance and employee retention rates—all critical impactors to corporate bottom lines.

Within the consulting world, IANSITI Performance was known for its client relationships, service and stewardship skills—both hallmarks of how Iansiti partnered with clients. In 2017, the firm was ranked within Inc. 5000 nationally and the Florida State University Seminole 100.

Iansiti's life mission is to assist individuals, teams and organizations in reaching their highest potential. He frequently speaks on client relationships, business development and entrepreneurship. He's been featured as a guest expert on CNN and cited in numerous articles and papers on leadership, professionalism, job search and corporate culture.

A decorated alumnus of Florida State University, Iansiti was named Most Distinguished Alumnus of the College of Education. Iansiti earned a bachelor's degree in finance from the College of Business and a master's in instructional systems from the College of Education.

In October 2021, he completed the sale of IANSITI Performance and now devotes time to Florida State University, where he chairs the FSU Foundation Board of Trustees. He previously served on the FSU College of Business Board of Governors for a decade including serving as chair. Iansiti frequently speaks at student classes and spends time with the IANSITI Scholars—student recipients of his three endowed scholarships.

Iansiti lives in Naples, Florida, and enjoys the beach, travel and all things Italian. His learning interests include investments, the art market and corporate governance.

Richard D. McCullough, Ph.D.

*Ex Officio
President
Florida State University*

Tallahassee, Fla.*

Richard McCullough became the 16th president of Florida State University on Aug. 16, 2021, bringing more than 30 years of academic research and leadership experience to the role, as well as a commitment to innovation, entrepreneurship and student success.

President McCullough is focused on building on Florida State University’s foundation as a Top 20 public university and pursuing a bold vision for the future. Since assuming the presidency, he has recruited world-class faculty, staff and administrators; invested in academic excellence, student success and faculty and staff; grown the university’s research portfolio; encouraged student and faculty entrepreneurial endeavors; cultivated relationships with elected officials and community leaders; enhanced fundraising efforts; and promoted athletic success.

Under McCullough’s leadership, the university launched FSU Health—one of the largest and most ambitious projects in Florida State history. This initiative will transform health care delivery, education and biomedical research in North Florida.

Prior to joining FSU, McCullough served as vice provost for research and professor of materials science and engineering at Harvard University since 2012. In this role, he oversaw the development, review and implementation of strategies, planning and policies related to academic research. In addition, he led an office of Foundation and Corporate Engagement and assisted in overseeing more than 25 interdisciplinary institutes, centers and initiatives across the university.

During his tenure, McCullough successfully built and launched the new Harvard Data Science Initiative, a collaboration between 12 of the university’s schools and more than 120 faculty that led to the creation of three new master’s programs and many new undergraduate courses.

McCullough developed and launched a new structural biology program and cryo-electron microscope facility that partners Harvard Medical School with three Boston-area hospitals. He also led the development of a $100 million, multi-institution collaboration to build the Advanced Biological Innovation and Manufacturing Center and Facility, known as Landmark Bio, which is a hub for medical research and education, as well as economic and workforce development.

Previously, McCullough spent 22 years at Carnegie Mellon University in Pittsburgh, where he began his academic career as an assistant professor of chemistry in 1990 and became the Thomas Lord Professor of Chemistry in 2009. He was promoted to head of the chemistry department in 1998 and then served as dean of the Mellon College of Science from 2001 to 2007 before becoming the university's vice president for research.

McCullough, who holds multiple patents and is the founder of two companies, has a rich background in entrepreneurship and innovation. At Carnegie Mellon, he developed a vibrant innovation ecosystem, including the Greenlighting Startups Initiative, which exponentially increased the generation of university spin-out companies and corporate engagement. In 2013, he was elected a fellow of the National Academy of Inventors.

McCullough is the author of numerous peer-reviewed articles and serves on the editorial boards of several academic journals, including Advanced Materials. He has been an innovation, entrepreneurship and technology transfer advisor to Oxford University, Princeton University and Washington University at St. Louis.

A first-generation college student from Mesquite, Texas, McCullough attended Eastfield Community College before earning a bachelor's degree in chemistry from the University of Texas at Dallas in 1982 and a doctoral degree in organic chemistry from Johns Hopkins University in 1988. McCullough also spent two years as a postdoctoral fellow at Columbia University in New York.

He and his wife, Dr. Jai Vartikar, have two children, Jason and Dylan; daughter-in-law, Sarah Christian; and three granddaughters.

Dr. Marilyn Young retired in 2005 as the Florida State University Wayne C. Minnick Professor of Communication, Emerita. She taught at FSU for 33 years, serving as debate coach and director of forensics from 1972 to 1985. During her tenure at FSU, Young received numerous teaching excellence and service awards, including the Teaching Incentive Program Award in 1995 and the Professorial Excellence Award in 1998. In 2001, she was named the Minnick Professor in recognition of her work as a teacher, scholar and citizen of the university. In addition to chairing numerous university committees, Young served as chair of her department, two terms as president of the Faculty Senate, and 15 years on the Faculty Senate Steering Committee. She continues to serve as parliamentarian for the Faculty Senate. She received the Fred L. Standley Distinguished Service Professor Award in 2005 and was honored with the Vires Torch Award in 2012.

In retirement, Young established the Marilyn J. Young Endowment for Intercollegiate Debate to ensure that FSU's 120-year legacy of debate will benefit future generations of students. To that end, she continues to work with the FSU Foundation to grow the debate endowment. In addition, Young is a member of the College of Communication and Information Leadership Board, president of the Association of Retired Faculty and co-chair of the Faculty Senate Torch Awards Committee. In 2021, she was inducted into the Alumni Association's Circle of Gold.

As an undergraduate at FSU (B.A. '64), Young was a member of the debate team, the Tau Kappa Alpha Forensics Honorary, and Phi Beta Kappa and Phi Kappa Phi academic honor societies. She earned her master's degree and Ph.D. in communication from the University of Pittsburgh and taught at California State University, Los Angeles, before joining the FSU faculty in 1972. In 1994, she and her husband, Dr. Michael Launer, founded RussTech Language Services, specializing in technical translation and interpreting for nuclear safety and security, a business they sold in 2019. Young has continued her research activity, focusing on the development of political communication in post-Soviet Russia. She has published eight books and numerous essays and has presented papers all over the world.
